Choosing a Topic Voki

When choosing a topic for a technology lesson the main thing to remember is that you are creating a lesson plan based upon the content you are teaching for a particular class. You may also teach students how to use a certain technology as part of the lesson but the topic should represent the content area not the technology.

For example, if you are choosing a topic for a technology lesson plan in 4th grade social studies you would focus on social studies content and how to best deliver that content before choosing your technology.

The technology you choose would be used to deliver the content, facilitate an activity or to assess learning.

In summary, the topic picked can represent anything you are trying to teach your students, just keep in mind that it should focus on the content area not the technology.
